Coverings Etc Collaborates with Area Designers to Transform Notable Home

Miami, FL – Coverings Etc has joined forces with top interior design, architect and landscape firms to participate in Casa Décor Miami, a collection of visionary interior and exterior installations that have revived the Historic Miami Women’s Club creating a showcase of stunning design.

The company teamed-up with distinguished designers Roxana Tillit from Studio Baigorria Design Office and Pepe Calderin from Levine, Calderin & Associates for the project. Products such as Antique Venetian marble and Montpellier limestone, from Covering’s popular natural stone portfolio, were highlighted.

“We were able to work with the designers to integrate classic and distinctive accents for their respective showrooms,” noted Sonja Bogensperger with Coverings Etc. “The Casa Décor name is synonymous with quality and beautiful design. We are excited to be part of the inaugural edition.”

The city of Miami was selected as the host location for the debut of Casa Décor within the US. The show house, located off downtown on Bayshore Drive, was built in 1925 and designated an historic site in 1983. It will be open to the public from November 10th through December 17th, 2006, highlighting over fifty spectacular exhibits.

Casa Décor began in 1985 in Buenos Aires, Argentina, with the concept enthusiastically spreading throughout Brazil and Peru. In 1992, Casa Décor made its European debut in Madrid with venues in Barcelona, Milan, Valencia and London soon following. Currently, close to sixty cities worldwide host designer show houses. Miami will take center stage as the premier venue for the launch of Casa Décor USA.

"The exhibits at the show house are displayed at a scale unique to anything done in the US previously," noted Bogensperger. "I am sure we will see more cities incorporating Casa Decor into their landscapes."
